Have you ever witnessed a racist incident but didn't know what to say or do and felt conflicted and regretful about not responding? This session will help you develop your "response-ability" -- that is, your readiness to respond to such incidents. You'll explore tools, language and theories to help you shift from passive bystander to active witness. You will feel more equipped and empowered to respond to racism on an individual basis.

Together, we can break the silence and make an ethical commitment to collectively fight prejudice, discrimination and oppression of any form in society.
